

If It Feels Right

Anya Marina

If it feels right, you should make a movie starring all of your friends

You should put a spotlight on the little things

If it feels right

If you feel low, you could fall asleep inside a silo

You could bring your knapsack and your roller skates, and run a way

If it feels right

If It feels right, you should talk about it for a long time

In the morning on and on...

If you don't mind, you could figure out what makes a valentine

You could put a finger on what makes a girl weak

When you fall for things

Like the new voice on your machine

And the way he says,

It's me.
