As time goes by And your words die The pain that remains Is all I can save, is all I own

Before too long I will know Another life just gone Letting go, so hard to say And I wish that you could stay

As I return, my heart must yearn For time, ease my mind, move on Realise I can't stop time

And your tears they show
All the things I already know
As I watch you drift away
And the light begins to fade

I tried to show
Who I am, I just don't know
And I wish you could have stayed
As the light began to fade