

Nobody Knows The Way I Feel This Morning

Aretha Franklin

Nobody knows the way I feel this morning
I said nobody knows the way I feel this morning
If I had my way
The graveyard would be the place my man would lay
Nobody knows the way I feel this morning
Well I pawned everything I had
Everything I had this morning
Well I pawned everything I had
Everything I had this morning
I pawned my ring, my gold watch and chain
I'm not proud of myself
I got a little bit of shame
Nobody knows the way I feel this morning
Well I feel like screaming
Screaming and crying this morning
Well I feel like screaming
Screaming and crying this morning
And I'm a leaving here on the southbound train this morning
And I'm a leaving here on the southbound train this morning
And I'm a leaving here on the southbound train
And let me tell you that nothing is ever gonna bring your sweet baby back again
Nobody knows the way I feel this morning
