

Pour Me In

Ari Hest

Locked in a daydream
Your fire within me
For one fleeting moment before I return
Petals from your roses
Postcards and poses
Memories of a love we earned

I thought it would take more time to get past infatuation
But you crept into my soul, no more need for patience
I'll take you on
Baby love, pour me in, pour me in to your heart
Cause I don't want to feel like I'm missing, this love I have been given

In this space we share
Take all I have to spare
Just allow me to keep my ear a whisper away
For whenever the time should come
When your ready to move as one
I don't want to feel the slightest delay

Never again will the feeling arise of lonely desperation
No more meaning for an end, without separation
Come take me on
