

Older Than Her Years

Ariel Pink

Older, older than her years, (she's) older, older than her years

(She's) Old, older than her years, she's older, older than her years

Older, older, older than her years, (but how old?) older, (don't know) old

Older, older than her years, older, older than her years

And she counts the calendar off but she still looks

Older, older than her years, older than her years (older, older)

She's still too young to date but I can see her face at eighty-eight

She looks older, older than her years

Older, older, older, older than her years, older

A glass of water once a day won't help

Older, older than her years, older, she would brush past her own face

She'd be like the man through the park place, ha, dig it, c'mon Oh, than her years, older than her years

Yeah, I like it like that, what's that?

When we're seen together, I seem just a tad

Younger, younger than my years, younger, younger than my years

A glass of water once a day won't help

Older, older than her years, older than her years, older

Anybody [?] takes a message from your mama, ha

Older than her years, older, older, older than her years

Older, older than her years, older, older than her years

She looks older, older than her years, (just a little bit) older than her years

Older, older than her years, ha ha

And that cream doesn't help to make you look much younger

It just makes your face a little shinier, bounty bound to all

But she still looks older, older than her years, she's older, how old?
