

Pink Beatles in a Purple Zeppelin

Arjen Anthony Lucassen

"Why create more music - if it was all done before. Computer generated noise in millions of gigs. Of all kinds and in all formats. Imagine 7/D plus! Flash your ID, pick your heart's desire. Click it, keep it. It's auto-drive pre-shock, momma!"

Every song's been sung before
Every note's been played
Every chord has been strummed before
Every melody's been made

They heard it all by now
Nothing left to be inspired by
It all seems so unreal somehow
As I sit back and close my eyes...

I just think of what I like
Any blend will do
They reproduce what's in my mind
But it feels like something new

Pink Beatles in a Purple Zeppelin
Same old sound, different song
(And the song remains the same)
Pink Beatles in a Purple Zeppelin
Sounds so right, feels so wrong

Every tune's been hummed before
Every album's been produced
Every rhyme has been applied before
And every music style has fused

I just think of what I like
Any blend will do
They reproduce what's in my mind
But it feels like something new

Pink Beatles in a Purple Zeppelin
Same old sound, different song
(And the song remains the same)
Pink Beatles in a Purple Zeppelin
Sounds so right, feels so wrong

Pink Beatles in a Purple Zeppelin
Same old sound, different song
(And the song remains the same)
Pink Beatles in a Purple Zeppelin
Sounds so right, feels so wrong
