

My Thin Sides

Army Navy

Next time when I'm pulling it together
Remember that she dropped you in the brine
I don't mind if I ever stop believing
Let it go

And in my mind I'm swung by drunk persuasion
Met my bed and lonely I will lie
I would mind if I never get to see you
I've gone blind

In the end you might regret forever
I'm really sure she used up all of her lives
I don't mind of your heart it has stop breathing
Let it go

You will you see me as I'm always wrong
I'll believe it if you come back home

You'll always be the one that wakes my tired eyes
Always be the one to shy away
You'll always be the one that feeds my thin sides
Always be the one to drive away

And when the babies breath has gone sour
It's lugging and she sickens by the day
But you didn't given me time to make it right
You wouldn't put the time in
All of the doctors put the rise and then you smiling
Come to see me as I am always wrong
I will leave you and delete your songs

You'll always be the one that wakes my tired eyes
Always be the one to shy away
You'll always be the one that feeds my thin sides
Always be the one to drive away

In the canyon coyotes seek the kittens
And this is just what they do just to survive
Hear their cries
And let them die

You'll always be the one that wakes my tired eyes
Always be the one to shy away
You'll always be the one that feeds my thin sides
Always be the one to drive away (5x)
