

Return to Troy

Arrayan Path

Now begins a story of a war
Taking place so far away from home
On the shores of Troy it all begins as we're sailing through the waves of endless sea

Odysseus: "Mother I'm headed to war
My blood-forgotten sword is by my side
Father devoted my soul
For the sake of Helen who is fair
...unfortunately not bright..."

Menelaus: "You don't understand the pain
My love's been taken away
You don't understand the pain
She broke my heart once again
Lying tales that females say
For the name of Greece now I'll lay him to the ground"

Achilles: "I wanna see the bego for their lives!"

Soldiers marching through the blood-red seas
Trojans face the fearless Greeks
Time has come for blood to be spilled
For centuries this war had to be done...

Ajax: "Hector face your death... Before me you'll decay"

solo: Kokos

Hector: "Dare defy a Trojan man... That's all I have to say"

solo: Socratis

Hector: "Achilles one Achilles two... three the slicing of your throat!"

solo: Kokos

Hector: "Ajax you are strong but Patroclus won't be as lucky as you"

solo: Socratis

solo: Socratis-Kokos

Deadly battle deadly rain
It falls on the faces of slain men
Through the Trojan horse we will Conquer this city of gold
Bring it torture I'd say
Just illusions, dreams of pain
Now the war is done, now there's only one thing left to do

RIDING ON A HORSE OF FIRE AND STEEL
HECTOR FACED HIS DEATH WITH A
WINGED SMILE
THE BRAVEST OF THE GREEKS DREW FIRE
FROM THE SKY AND DRAGGED HIM TO THE DIRT WITH

OBVIOUS DELIGHT