As the reasons came and went, and swept across The face of my innocence, I was lost.

To know your face, and your true shade To feel your lips, and to be bade To praise the night, to praise my unknown faith Must I sure find a way? To infest the wound

Inside the wound, that draws me near And cries my name, and feeds my presence I am here!

I long for one piece with I cry for my peace is in you

Inside the wound I hope to find The essence and presence of you Inside the wound I wish to learn The art of fucking you

After the reasons came and went, and swept across
The face of my innocence, I was lost
Inside the wound, that draws me near
And cries my name, and feeds my presence
I am here!

To know your face, and your true shade To feel the lips, and to be bade To know your face, and your true shade To hide in here, in this place

I long for one piece with I cry for my peace is in you