

Better Off

Art of Dying

Why do I still want to answer every time you call
I've got to try to cut out this cancer
Before it gets too strong...

I'm better off, better off without you
I'm better off, better off without you
I never thought that you'd lie to me the way you do
I'm better off, better off without you

Killing it will end the torture but never stop the pain
What kind of idiot makes a fortune
Just to piss it all away...

I'm better off, better off without you
I'm better off, better off without you
I never thought that you'd lie to me the way you do
I'm better off, better off without you

It's hard to forgive when you can't forget
And now somehow I despise the day that we met

I never thought that you'd lie to me the way you do
I used to think it would end up being me and you
I never thought I'd ever leave you for someone new

(I'm better off, better off without you) [X2]
Better off without you