

Straight Aways to Get Away

As Cities Burn

I peel back the staples I'm leaving a space where your frame used to hang I'm leaving holes in the wall and holes in my heart now let's begin at forgetting and we'll end at forgotten I'll be forgotten as soon as you let go...let go seeing you today was like losing you all over again I know I said I wouldn't ask but does it have to be this way?
empty the locket and throw it beneath the bed along with the things you wish you could forget I swear I'm under there somewhere now let's begin at forgetting and end at forgotten
I'll be forgotten as soon as you let go...let go I'll forget just to stay alive and God's plan winds but his faithfulness is at every bend and straightaway to get away from reality reality without you
