Floating away within dreams From a thousand worlds, My sould has left the spheres of man For all time... The rest of me The rotten limbs and my bones Dwelling within The sacred gardens of greif While my mind is adrift Upon the seas of starvation A tombstone is raised to mark I am not forgotten I remember faintly, Like whispers from beyond all time The reasons for my death But reason are part of life And I am forever more, part of death Part of death Part of death I greet you welcome To the world of the evil departed The neverending landscape of damnation We were sowing the seeds of blasphemy Consumed by the burning flame of eternity We were sowing the seeds of blasphemy Souls of the evil departed All dwell here In a number beyond counting Souls of the evil departed Souls of the evil departed The memories are slowly eating away At my shredded sanity The yerning for life has vanished, Nothing left to live for In this void Of lost souls and insanity My existance Is a mockery