My head is full of empty phrases And a noise I've never heard Is it that I'm feeling sorry For the things I do regret

You said we'd better be moving slowly And it's time to take a rest
Just be aware of who we are
And turn back time instead

We're moving backwards
Into a life we had before
Appreciate forever more

We're moving backwards
And lead a life we had before
But love the simple things that we used to ignore

Moving backwards Moving backwards

In the wake of indecision Reality can be unkind Some lead and some they follow Or is it blind leading blind

So we'd better be looking backwards And it's time to take a view At the promise of tomorrow We can start anew

We're moving backwards
Into a life we had before
Appreciate forever more

We're moving backwards
And lead a life we had before
But love the simple things that we used to ignore

Moving backwards Moving backwards
