Never Without You

When I close my eyes Will I know you're there? Will it tear me down When you've gone away? Out of all the things That I felt that day I never knew this Never without you

From where I lay you would always be The better part of me Stolen pieces that I'm hid underneath Through years I'd hang on a word for you While you are so carefully disguised We are hoping We would all but die and start anew

Hidden out of sight you can hear them Call your name out loud Running out of time as they count it All the way down I'm headed for the night It's another time of day down here You open your eyes I'll still be here

In the darkest nights You were haunting me Like a moon kept tide You were calmly pacing In and out of view And heaven knows I've tried to think How lonely life would be Here without you

From where I lay you would always be The better part of me Stolen pieces that I'm hid underneath Through years I'd hang on a word for you While you are so carefully disguised We are hoping We would all but die and start anew

Hidden out of sight You can hear them Call your name out loud Running out of time As they count it all the way down I'm headed for the night It's another time of day down here You open your eyes I'll still be here

You open your eyes I'll still be here
