Speak And The Devil Appears and everything goes through me on a Tuesday night feeling wrong yet right I won't admit I'm wrong dramatize and move along and everything you say I push down inside a hole where it can h ide resurfaces today its leaking out me through the sides of the story that I've been victimized I have to realize and face up to my faults the irony it makes me strong convient thinking used to mean everything i think i can't be wrong

the lies i feed myself a selfish figure shows itself so will you go on when you can't see the darkest part inside of me a darker future lurks unseen will you forgive me? forgive myself how the end will turn out w e don't know this hibernation heals the soul so please let me go you're on your own seems we can't face one last embrace and i will return one lesson learned please say goodbye inside i die as i hid behind me fears i've lost what i hold dear and the truth is what i fear and i speak and the devil appears
