Devil In Me

Augie March

There must have been a light in your eyes That you didn't see the devil in me When he was right there inside, in my low company That I never made an effort to hide or to get him behind That the surface don't quake when you see me in the grip of the vice That the earth doesn't shake shouldn't come as the biggest surp rise Seeing blind love loans a clever disguise Another day in the dirt Make you wonder will it ever come clean Well, I'm not a machine but if we're gonna bury the hurt Take your pick and your shovel and lean to the task sister, lea n Oh, how long will I go on about it though it profits me none? But the day that I cease from my labor then the devil has won Until that day I won't be holding my tongue (What I wanted to say) Is if the two of us, me and the devil, both can live in my skin And I can keep a close eye on him, then you know that the devil won't win As long as I keep on the light side of sin
