Make-Up Smeared Eyes

Automatic Loveletter

Left your t-shirt in my room Still smells of you And the picture you hung on the door Lay smashed, picture perfect Explains now Clearly nothing left but a memory We only made out You never kissed me That's how I learned to hold back all feeling

Wait, please don't go I won't stay All these words on replay I'm okay It's all right Good to know that you're fine

Pretending everything is right to make it better I'll hide my make-up smeared eyes To show that I'm fine

Some how you have managed to get under my skin More than anyone ever did And if every hole makes a scar And every scar marks its place Then I will never live freely without your trace And it'll never be fair I wrote my songs for you and you never even cared So I'll forget you I'll wash your t-shirt and kill the pillow And cut you out of pictures

Wait, please don't go I won't stay All these words on replay I'm okay It's all right Good to know that you're fine

Pretending everything is right to make it better I'll hide my make-up smeared eyes

This drama sat shotgun My eyes rained like autumn Only the glove box knows how the story goes Now that this bandage is broken And the cuts left in open I'll tell you just one thing This wasn't worth the sting [x3]