

Blind Truth

Autopilot Off

I was drunk sober tarnished and pure
All I ever wanted was a little bit more
I had eyes that were heavy sickly and sore
Blacked out windows and a bolt on the door
I was shell shocked shaken from the world outside
I had voices come and wake me in the dead of the night
At the end of the tunnel they say there's a light
I hope there's more to living than just being alive

Cause the blind truth
It'll find you
In the end it's all that's waiting
Yeah the blind truth
It'll find you
In the end it's all that's waiting
For you

I was judge jury and witness in one
I put myself on trial for the things I had done
Folks are staring lookin' now at what I've become Cold and unforgiving like the face of a gun
Went underneath my skin I felt my blood so warm
Waking up my senses like the day I was born
I was the sickness and I was the cure
I never thought I'd ever feel so safe and secure

And the blind truth
It'll find you
In the end it's all that's waiting
Yeah the blind truth
It'll find you
In the end it's all that's waiting
For you

Oh wah oh ohhh

Is the outside just your reflection? no
It's a whispering that you hear when you're alone
It's all I know

Without the blood beneath my skin
It was so warm
It was just like the very first day I was born

And the blind truth
It'll find you
In the end it's all that's waiting
And the blind truth
It'll find you
In the end it's all that's waiting

Always watching always patient
In the end it's all that's waiting for you
