

Thrush And Wake

Autumn Tears

Feel the ancient sound
with a feathered pulse
The aged thrush
bound to death's dark wing Silently it asks
"Do we need joy?"
It's nothing more than shame and loss Morning choir sings
to warm the hearts
of crueller beings
as they take my wings