Just A Faint Line

I called you on the phone I said I was confused and in a daze You said this uncertainty one day I would crave So I wrote down exactly how I wanna live And now it's a promise I'll never give And it's a faint line I trace to recreate The semblance of love of some stability And it's a faint line I trace to recreate A semblance of love of some stability It's just a faint line I trace to recreate A semblance of love of some stability It's just a faint line I trace to recreate A semblance of love of some stability It's just a faint line I trace to recreate A semblance of love of some stability It's just a faint line I trace to recreate A semblance of love of some stability It's just a faint line I trace to recreate
