

We Exchanged Words

Azure Ray

We exchanged words
through smoke-filled mouths.
and then we found our bodies speaking loud and our hearts rest against the flesh trading stories of loves pain, doubt, and rivaling insecurities when did we learn to speak without words and in tongues
maybe we should just stop here