The Man Who Came To Stay

Babyshambles

There's a man who came to stay The boy he replaced, disappeared without a trace... Stole all my songs and my style away No-one would say what they wanted to say So he was king for a day.. If you sail into the sun Beware the eyes of green And if the whole room tells you 'you are the one' I defy you not to believe them, my son...

There's a man who came to stay... Never showing on time Out of his mind, diddly doo doo dine Every single gig I play Something's not right inside Paranoia and pride, nowhere to hide...

If you sail into the sun, la la la la la la la Beware the eyes of green And if the whole world tells you 'you are the one' You must be hearing those voices again my son

If you sail into the sun Please beware the eyes of green And if it's all too much for you my son