

Lookin' in

Bad Religion

Suddenly, it came to me a potent dosage of reality I saw myself in the broad daylight and it made me think about life
im not the kinda guy
who nods his head
with closed eyes
I scoff at labels
I defy censuses
and despise group mentality all along i through that this was only human but i know now that I'm in the minority I'm lookin' in now i think in relation to my fellow man
and what strives to do we fail to see theres no compromise
our evolution
is our demise
one day you may find that you are also one of me a micrososm
of the human race
observing those around us desiring to belong
behing the guise of salvation we suffer along the way we're lookin' in