

You're So Fine

Badfinger

Let me see your face, let me see you smile
None can measure your love in miles
Only you can comfort me
You're so fine.

You can take me up, you can bring me down
Put my feet back on the ground
Since you've got a hold on me
I'm alive, I'm alive.

You built around me fences, put my back against a wall
You broke into my world and made me crawl
You've broken my defenses, made me want you more and more
You came into my life, I asked for more, more and more.

Can't get enough, enough of your love
I've learned my lesson well, now it's good enough
Maybe someday the world will come
Come alive, come alive.

You built around me fences, put my back against a wall
You broke into my world and made me crawl
You've broken my defenses, made me want you more and more
You came into my life, I asked for more, more and more.