

Lies

Badlands

One day in my life I realised
I was cursed and bound to pay the price
Trying to figure out the reason why faith inside of me must slowly die

I took the lies, I took em' one by one
I payd the price, now the pain has just begun
Well I've been wrong, not unlike many others
Now I clearly face the fact we simply cannot trust each other Lies, lies

I often questioned both the good and bad
Now I question all that has been said
Kicked around, I've been treated like a fool
Got to break out while the madness rules

Hey my friend now would you shake my hand
Tell me something I can undestand
And look me in the eye hones and true
I question your integrity,
I've go to see it trough
