What Is It Now?

Badly Drawn Boy

So now that life will never be the same We've got to face the thought of loneliness again Try and get inside your lover's brain Drag an old romance from dirty ditch, and then

So what is it now that it can't be made to feel right Don't answer now, I know somehow we'll be alright Level out and help us find a place You've got to see the sights from somewhere else again, yeah The modern innocents have changed the pace They've got to know its all been answered incidentally

So what is it now that it can't be made to feel right Don't answer now, I know somehow we'll be alright

So now that life will never be the same We've got to face the thought of loneliness again You know we'll be alright

So what is it now that it can't be made to feel right Don't answer now, I know somehow we'll be alright Yeah, what is it now that it can't be made to feel right Don't answer now, I know somehow we'll be alright

So now that life will never be the same We've got to face the though of loneliness again
