

I Think I'll Be Ok

Bayside

You keep saying you've had enough and I know just how you feel You keep it all inside and its nipping at your heels

It's eating you alive
I can see it in your stare
I'd sit with you all night if I thought you'd even care

I've lost track of who I was some time ago
I thought I figured out which way to go now I hate to say that the only thing that keeping me alive is you
the only thing that's keeping me alive
but I can't say your name
I think I'll be okay

I've had it up to here with your morbid ways your happy being sad and you prove it every day

I've lost track of who I was some time ago
I thought I figured out which way to go
but now I hate to say the only thing that's keeping me alive is
you
the only thing that's keeping me alive
and I can't say your name
I think I'll be okay

You don't want to see the less the polite side of me just say your prayers and close your mouth start curbing what comes out and find another way to feel important that can't be drank or snorted don't call me up to say hello cause I don't want you around when I get home

but now I hate to say the only thing that's keeping me alive is
you
the only thing that's keeping me alive
but I can't say your name
I think I'll be okay
