

A Year Ago Today

Bear's Den

I was stood beside you outside the court room

And when they called your name
You thought I'd be ashamed but I stood taller

For you've already served
All that you deserved, too many lifetimes over

And when they called your name
You thought I'd be ashamed but I stood taller

And money always flowed
From the pockets of your clothes to the hands of another

Copper, silver, gold
A greater love was sold, down the Craig Matty River

He promised you the world
You let your hair unfold right down his shoulders

He promised you the world
And now that same old world is just getting smaller

Oh Mama
I told you all the time
Please be careful with your love
I told you all the time

Oh Mama
I told you all the time
Please be careful who you love
I told you all the time

I was stood beside you outside the court Room

And when they called your name
You thought I'd be ashamed but I stood taller

And I watched as your pride
From your nose and eyes, came out a flowing

And when they called your name
You thought I'd be ashamed but I stood taller

Oh Mama
I told you all the time
Please be careful with your love
I told you all the time

Oh Mama
I told you all the time
Please be careful who you love
I told you all the time

Oh Mama
I told you all the time
Please be careful with your love

I told you all the time

Love