Greatness or Death

Beartooth

I promise you there's times I'm not so sad Some days the good will even out the bad I know I'm married to my problems It's always in my head, and I'm destined for greatness or death Destined for greatness or death

Thought I was standing tall Repressed with no resolve Happiness and ignorance aren't so different after all

Thought I was being strong This time you're in the wrong I've lived a lie too long I've lived a lie too long

Now push has come to shove I signed the deed in blood I need another drug I need another drug

I promise you there's times I'm not so sad Some days the good will even out the bad I know I'm married to my problems It's always in my head, and I'm destined for greatness or death Destined for greatness or death

Thought I could make demands Now I can barely stand Comfort quickly fading with the sickness setting in

Now push has come to shove I signed the deed in blood I need another drug I need another drug

I promise you there's times I'm not so sad Some days the good will even out the bad I know I'm married to my problems It's always in my head, and I'm destined for greatness or death Destined for greatness or death

I'm beginning to think I can't outrun these demons But you know what they say Sickness is in season

Sickness is in season I promise you there's times I'm not so sad Some days the good will even out the bad I know I'm married to my problems It's always in my head, and I'm destined for greatness or death Destined for greatness or death

Sickness is in season Sickness is in season
