The Dinosaur-Slipper-Man

Bel Canto

The dinosaur-slipper-man does the very best he can To make a living out if what he does. Hers selling dinosaur-slippers and dinosaur-ties. Well, then it happened one night, the stars shone bright. He knew exactly what he had to do. And then nobody has seen him Since he walked through that door and disappeared out in the bl ue. Did he go now to see them again? Did he go now to be with them, and if he did, will he come back again? If he wonrt, will we know where he went? Did he go now to see them again? Did he go now to be with them, and if he did, will he come back again? If he wonft, do you know where he went? The dinosaur-slipperman has concealed his masterplan inside a power pc cpu. It has something to do with that hers met someone else on a cyb erspace rendez-vous. And so it happened that night, the stars shone bright. He knew exactly when to flee. He must have said to his baby; stationary baby: «you must cover up for me». Did he go now to see them again? Did he go now to be with them, and if he did, will he come back again? If he wonrt, will we know where he went? Did he go now to see them again? Did he go now to be with them, and if he did, will he come back again? If he wonft, do you know where he went?
