

Cornerstone

Benjamin Clementine

I am alone in a box of stone
When all is said and done
As the wind blows to the east from the west
Unto this bed, my tears have their solemn rest

I am lonely, alone in a box of stone
They claim they loved me but they all lieing
I am lonely alone in a box of my own
And this is the place, I now belong

Its my home, home, home, home home home home home x2

It wasnt easy getting used to this
I use to scream
Its not true, that its only when the door is locked
That nobody enters
Cuz mine has been open till your demise
But none had come, well who am I,
What have i done wrong?

Ive been lonely, alone in a box of my stone
They claim to be near me but they were all lying, its not true
Ive been lonely, alone in a box of my stone
This is the place I know I now belong

Its my home, home, home, home home home home home x2

Friends, I have met
Lovers have slept and wept
Promises to stay had never been kept
This bare truth of which most wont share
I hope you share, I hope you share

Cuz I have been lonely
Alone in a box of my own
They claim to love me and be near me
But they are all lieing
I have been lonely, alone in a box of my stone
And this is the place I now know I belong

Its my home, home, home, home home home home home x2
