

What About Joy

Beres Hammond

Now the wrongs you do,
To anyone of my brothers,
I know you'd do the same to me.
I won't take sides,
Or join you when you criticise,
Instead I like to show some sweeter reality now.

What about joy?
What about the peace you feel within?
What about caring for eachother?
What about love?
What about joy?
What about the peace you feel within?
What about caring for eachother?
What about love?

Let me show you what I'm after,
No disaster, pure fun and laughter.
And if this world would ever follow,
How mellow, oh so mellow.

We all should allow ourselves,
To produce a real potential.
I'm addressing everyone,
Cause you're done now with the partial.

What about joy?
What about the peace you feel within?
What about caring for eachother?
What about love?
What about joy?
What about the peace you feel within?
What about caring for eachother?
What about love?

In the depth of night,
When the world is dead asleep,
Don't want to be the only one,
Tossing and turning.
Open up your minds,
Feel the music that's playing,
Open up and let happiness come in.

What about joy?
What about the peace you feel within?
What about caring for eachother?
What about love?
What about joy?
What about the peace you feel within?
What about caring for eachother?
What about love?

Let me show you what I'm after,
No disaster, pure fun and laughter.
And if this world would ever follow,
How mellow, oh so mellow.

What about joy?
What about the peace you feel within?
What about caring for eachother?
What about love?
What about joy?
What about the peace you feel within?
What about caring for eachother?
What about love?
