

Hero

Bethany Dillon

You broke the silence, a break in the clouds
A ray of hope in the darkness
You dusted off the steeples, places full of fear
Full of never ending judgment

And what is love without much risk?
You were a man of great sorrow
The world that you created kept you at a distance
You weren't recognizable

Oh, you're the hero we've been waiting for
You have done the impossible
You're the hero we've been waiting for
You have done the impossible, the impossible

You bridged the gap, you tore the veil
Almighty God in the flesh
All the plans and schemes against your love would fail
In light of your obedience

Yeah, you're the hero we've been waiting for
You have done the impossible
You're the hero we've been waiting for
You have done the impossible, the impossible

The impossible
The impossible

A babe cries in the night
The earth shook in awe
They echo of a man's cries
The curse undone, the curse undone
Our hero has won

You're the hero we've been waiting for
You have done the impossible
You're the hero we've been waiting for
You have done the impossible

You're the hero we've been waiting for
You have done the impossible
You're the hero we've been waiting for
You have done the impossible