Better Luck Next Time

How do I begin this story at the end?
I guess we'll see on the other side my friend...
Is life the scripted plan written for every man with no control of what the future holds?

'Cause I can't see the ending to my story
if I can't write each chapter of my life
Reality, fiction created by me
and I don't know if it is set in stone.

Questions and mysteries, I'm constantly searching Church and your schools provide no answering
I scream up to the sky, fall to my knees and cry
I bleed for faith, I need faith to believe.

'Cause I can't see the ending to my story
if I can't write each chapter of my life
Reality, fiction created by me
and I don't know if it is set in stone.

Just when you think the story's ending, you've come to find it's just begun
And you can say this all seems like a chapter, and it's never-ending.
