

When the universal darkness is covering the earth, and hold us tight

Some spying eyes are drawn to the sky stuck upon it,

Filled with interrogations

They are questioning about life:

What is the reason for our presence here?

And what can we do to prevent human mistakes?

When the first minute of the day arrives with this total silence

Some light crystal beams are penetrating the room

Delivering this darkness that doesn't show me

In which world of trouble we are living

Pressure, slaughter, crime and monetary shit...

My eyes are opening to a totally different world!!

A ceptage of flesh that awaits to be hacked up

Feeding your deadliest thoughts

Human of century

No more can I accept these lies

They are all standing there, without anyone talking and no reason to be heard.

But life is so important! This life is yours

When someone chooses to take or give life

Many lives are resting on their shoulders

It's a choice to make, the way of life you'll take

So I wish you to take the good path!

If society can't accept itself, how could it deal with each individuality

This nightmare must be overcome

This truth is for us!!

It's a scar that cannot be healed but it could be known

At this point, coexistence could be a scheme.
