

I stroke your silken skin, kiss you goodbye, your eyes just pierce me through
I am bleeding with blood I'd give to you, to be the way we were
I still feel the pain in my heart, thoughts once pure are now diluted

We sat and watched the sun go down
We wrapped together in each other's arms
Never felt so complete as when we're alone on the sand at night

I still feel the pain in my heart, thoughts once pure are now diluted

I love the way your hair hangs over your eyes, crush me with your stare
If I could fly to you I would to be the way we were
I still feel the pain in my heart, thoughts once pure are now diluted
It's alright now, it's alright now, it's alright now, it's alright now