

I never want to see that again
I thought I was prepared for the end
There's no other way for us I suppose
I'll mend the cracks it's still flowing in

The water is rising, even in the calm
I failed to right all those wrongs

Eventually the worrying ends
Where does it stop, where do I begin
I never thought that I'd be the one
Towards a storm I usually run

The water is rising, wars are never won
Yet another someone

The useless ones we need,
The useless blood we bleed

Now that it's an eye for an eye
We're bringing out the worst you and I
Remember when we called it a home
Now it seems like that was a lie

The water is rising, I'm falling like a stone
I've lost the battles I've won

The useless ones we need,
The useless blood we bleed

The useless love we need,
The useless blood we bleed
