

Your Old Love Letters

Billie Jo Spears

Today I burned your old love letters I burned them slowly one by one
And before I'd light the flame I'd read them to try and find the wrongs I've done
The first you wrote me was the sweetest the last one broke my heart in two
And all alone it's left me weeping for the ashes of your letters tied in blue

Today I burned your old love letters I watched my dreams go up in smoke
I lived again those precious memories I heard each tender word you spoke
The first you wrote me was the sweetest the last one said that we were through Our love is there among the embers in the ashes of your letters tied in blue
