If This Ship Sinks (I Give In)

Birds of Tokyo

I'm trying to get my head straight I'm playing in game that I can't win I started in the wrong place A slap to the cold face of love I wanna stop this god damn beating heart It's killing me

This is killing me

I'm trying to get my head straight I didn't see the warning signs ahead I feeling like a dead weight long gone If I could make it all right I would I never thought I'd say these things to you And it's killing me

This is killing me

I can't stop this train I can't get off But I can't go back I've come too far to stop There's too many signs to read them all There's too many roads I need to stumble down

I've gotta get my head straight
I never thought a day like this would come
I'll never be the same way as once
I wanna know if this is for real
I've gotta know what fate has planned for me
I give in
I give in
I give in
I give in

Believe me when I say There's something I wish I could say You were always so good to me Even when it's so hard to be I sailed myself too far out to sea On favoured whims that wont sing for me There'll be no rescue no finding me As I become an old memory You once knew You once knew

It's silent as I sink into the sea Weightless as the tide carries me To darker water where I believe Something's down here waiting for me The numbing cold is taking from me Everything I'm so far beneath My eyes they open one last time to see You are staring right back me
