

Too Late For The Sun

Black Country Communion

Long day is gone
I feel so hollow
I see my spirit
It falls from grace
I travel on
Hope you will follow
I'm on the outside
I can't get no space

Give it to Mother Earth
Take it for what it's worth

Slowly I lay down this burden
Beside me
And I start to stumble
And rise to my feet
It's all that I have
I cannot wander
So hard to swallow
It's so bittersweet

Give it to Mother Earth
Take it for what it's worth
It's Too Late For The Sun
It's Too Late For The Sun

I took my vow
But I need some shelter
I change the weather
And I shield the pain
Now I shed my skin
Before I get older
And I save myself
From a hurricane

Give it to Mother Earth
Take it for what it's worth
It's Too Late For The Sun
It's Too Late For The Sun
