

We're all waiting for a sign Show me a way which is divine We're following paths where the blind leads the blind
If this world has fallen behind Do we blame it on mankind?
For all the sins we've left behind
When will we rise again?

On these sad wings we write this history
to leave behind our legacy
The future holds the key
that opens many doors
The choice is yours
Choose carefully

There's a light that guides our way Close our eyes and we may say we're only to blame if this world is in flames Persevere 'til we can achieve A harmonious reality
With open eyes what will we see?
Our rise again

On these sad wings we write this history
to leave behind our legacy
The future holds the key
that opens many doors
The choice is yours
Choose carefully

If you follow the path that your visions have seen They'll be blinding your eyes
And then stealing your dreams
Don't confuse love with hate
You can follow the path
In which your heart believes you'll be sure to receive all your dreams have foreseen Now go and make that choice

On these sad wings we write this history
to leave behind our legacy
The future holds the key
that opens many doors
The choice is yours
Choose carefully