Wish You Well

Black Majesty

When your ships have sailed They take you where you want to be Right there Right there where you belong

It's never going to be the same Never be the same All that you hold dear will soon be gone Letting go is the only way of you learning how to Say goodbye

Set your dreams for the stars And to hope a safe return Spread your wings and learn to fly For a safe and better life Let god speed be your guide And protect you on your way Wish you well dear old friend Until the day we meet again When all else is gone Keep a hold onto This key to life You'll be alright As it will serve you well

Never gonna make mistakes Never make mistakes All that you hold dear will soon be gone Letting go is the only way of you learning how to Say goodbye