Still Standing

I watch you while you're sleeping Every night I'm here with you I try to protect you From the ghosts inside your dreams

I try not to break the silence I am just a watcher Every night you're growing older And eternity awakes

And the sun will rise again I'm still standing here with you We watch the years passing by And our souls will fade to grey And the sun will rise again I'm still standing here with you We watch the years passing by And our souls will fade to grey

I watch you while you're sleeping Every night I'm here with you I try to protect you From the ghosts inside your dreams

I try not to break the silence I am just a watcher Every night you're growing older And eternity awakes

And the sun will rise again I'm still standing here with you We watch the years passing by And our souls will fade to grey And the sun will rise again I'm still standing here with you We watch the years passing by And our souls will fade to grey