

The Way You Feel

Blutengel

I will never see the things that you have seen,
And I will never hear the words they said to you.

Tell me stories of your life,
Tell me how you see the future,
Is there a place for you and me?
We are so different but together,
We are strong,
You're the missing part of me.

I will never see the things that you have seen,
And I will never hear the words they said to you,
But I will try, I try to understand the way you feel.

Some dreams will never be fulfilled for me,
So many things you do are hurting me.
But when I look into your eyes I see,
if you only could, you would change the world for me.

I will never see the things that you have seen,
And I will never hear the words they said to you,
But I will try, I will try to understand the way you feel.

We are so different but together,
We are strong,
You're the missing part of me.

I will never see the things that you have seen,
And I will never hear the words they said to you,
But I will try, I try to understand the way you feel.
