Words from Heaven

Don't be confused You're back in time again It's funny but it's true They state your case Praise your name and the last place Where you lived without a trace Except that face that shone for you That faith belonged to you It saw you through again Those eyes of Danish blue Set in pain We all thought you were so brave When they laughed called you insane But now they're saying it was true Yes now they're saying These words came from heaven

I'm happy for you We've got to laugh again Cos when they thought they had you Stretched on racks You refused to answer back You sat still you never cracked Till they backed down in front of truth And now they say These words came from heaven Straight to you.
