

Me And The Elephants

Bobby Goldsboro

I remember one day we had nothin to do so we went down to the city zoo just to kill an hour or two out in the good sunshine.

But we had so much fun we were glad that we came we feed all the animals and gave each a name we didn't even mind when it started to rain we had a real good time.

But now that it's over and you're far away I miss you more with each passing day all my friends sympathize and say you'll forget in time, yes you will, give yourself a little time.

But it's already been well over a year and just in case you're interested you might like to hear how everybody's doin down at the city zoo, without you.

Well the Monkey's forgot you the Hippo forgot you and so did the Kangaroo but me and the Elephants we still remember you me and the Elephants we'll never forget you.

So I wrote to Ann Landers and Dear Abbey too and asked their advise as to what I should do they said everything that reminds me of you would all have to go.

So I burned all your pictures except two or three the one by my bed and one on my TV and the one that I always carry with me, every where I go

And today was so nice and since I was in town I thought I'd take the opportunity to go down and see how everyone is down at the city zoo, and what's new

Well the Rino forgot you the Zebra forgot you the Polar Bear and Tiger too.
But me and the Elephants we still remember you.
Me and the Elephants we'll never forget you.
