

Parking Space

Bodyjar

I can't find the answers
To all those stupid questions
That landed onto me today

Why should they care what I say
They'll never stop to wonder
To think about the day I leave

They say

I never thought I'd see you leaving
Now I'm glad that you're gone
My parking space is taken
And someone else is driving my car

I can't escape the pictures
Hangin' up in my head
I thought that they would stay away

There's things that didn't matter
That killed us on the inside
And left us right between those lines

They say

I never thought I'd see you leavin'
Now I'm glad that you're gone
My parking space is taken
And someone else is driving my car