Fracture

Bombay Bicycle Club

When the light's out and all of the fracturing starts You're just paying for some action you lost in the dark

You come down, holding tight , to the railing on the side You stayed up, left to dry, Now you're crumbling

Now your guard's down and all of your timing has gone You were patient 'till earth swallowed the last of the sun

You come down, holding tight , to the railing on the side You stayed up, left to dry, Now you're crumbling

It's not complex, see all of the signs flashing on You're just paying, for all of the bad you have done
