

Climb
is all we know
when thaw
is not below us
no, can't grow up
in that iron ground

Claire, all too sore for sound

Bet
is hardly shown scraped
across the foam
like they stole it
and oh, how they hold it

Claire, we nearly forfeit

I, I'm growing like the quickening hues I, I'm telling darkness from lines on you over havens fora full and swollen morass, young habitat!
all been living alone,
where the ice snap and the hold clast are known

Home
we're savage high
Come
we finally cry
oh and we don it because it's right

Claire, I was too sore for sight

I, we're sewing up through the latchet greens I, un-peel keenness, honey, bean for bean same white pillar tone as with the bone street sand is thrown where she stashed us at
all been living alone,
where the cracks at in the low part of the stoning
