

You Try

Bonnie Tyler

So you've had a run of bad luck
Keep sliding into brick walls
You're feeling like giving up because that mountains just too tall

You feel so small like a grain of sand
And you think it's the end

When you feel your faith is shaking
Your strength can pull you through
Any dreams are out there waiting for you to make a move
You got more than you think you've got to reach that finish line
You get a little bit closer each time you trrry

That wheel won't spin itself like a train without a track
Sometimes faith needs a little help to change the place you ride
Reach out and touch an angel's hand take a second chaaance

When you feel your faith is shaking
Your strength can pull you through
Any dreams are out there waiting for you to make a move
You got more than you think you've got to reach that finish line
You get a little bit closer each time you trrry

You can girl you can
You will yes you will
You'll fly yeah you'll fly
You can touch the sky
YEAAA!

When you feel your faith is shaking
Your strength can pull you through
Any dreams are out there waiting for you to make a move
You got more than you think you've got to reach that finish line
You get a little bit closer each time you trrry

When you feel your faith is shaking
Your strength can pull you through
Any dreams are out there waiting for you to make a move
You got more than you think you've got to reach that finish line
You get a little bit closer each time you trrry

When you feel your faith is shaking
Your strength can pull you through
Any dreams are out there waiting for you to make a move
You got more than you think you've got to reach that finish line
You get a little bit closer each time you trrry

When you feel your faith is shaking
Your strength can pull you through
Any dreams are out there waiting for you to make a move
You got more than you think you've got to reach that finish line
You get a little bit closer